“ Have just been to Eindhoven where I travelled with my dad and Dylan back in 1988. That trip changed my life for the better. Dylan showed my how to use the "Let´s go Europe" book and how to travel independently. My dad and Dylan have now passed away and it felt odd to be back in Eindhoven. They were great travelling companions.

“ Was just using my Ecolution blanket that has held up after all of these years and thought that I should look Dylan up and catch up...sadly saw this news. I used to sell ads to him at Hemp Times magazine in the 90s and then even went to work for him for several months in Santa Cruz during a transitional time for me. He helped me figure out a new direction at a tough time, actually, and he was truly a one-of-a-kind person...never seen anyone dance as theatrically as him :) Wish we could have caught up on things, thanks for the good times, old friend.

“ Sorry to hear about Dylan passing away. He was also very inspirational to me. My dad and I travelled around Europe in the summer of 88 and picked him up in Belgium when he was hitchhiking. He travelled for us for a few weeks and I have been interested in the American counterculture ever since. My thoughts are with his family. Ricardo

“ Dylan was a very important part of my life when I was younger. He was my first spiritual teacher who opened my mind to Buddhist ways, connecting with nature and creating beautiful lasting memories that I cherish. You are loved Dylan and love to your family.

“ To remember Dylan is to remember a man filled with vision and passion. I met him through making a video for the hemp movement and I immediately knew I had met someone who lived large with an energy, strength and grace that impressed me deeply. He was bold and followed his ideas and ideals. I was saddened to hear of his struggles, his illness, his ending here on Earthschool, but I will always hold the vision of him as a most stunningly beautiful man who cared about our planet and all its inhabitants. May he find peace and his perfect place of soul expression... and heartfelt condolences to his family. Love, LB Johnson

I will never forget Dylan. Friend and former editor of Santa Cruz Good Times, we helped promote the hemp retail shop he opened downtown. He loved purple (that bathroom!) on Felt Street... If the flower people had jasmine, I would have sent that. Remember sitting out back at his place and enveloped by the fragrance of a whole wall of blooming jasmine ;-)

“ A truly unique spirit that has been a great influence for me since I met him in 2001 for more than 10 years. Thank you for everything. I really hope I get to see you again. Many nights, many memories... so sad...

“ It was with deep sorrow and shock that I learned a couple of days ago that Dylan passed away on 4th of May. We have been close friends since 2000 and in 2003 he accepted to be the godfather of my son Alex. We both loved trees so Dylan gave me and Alex a fir tree back in 2009 as a gift. Five days before he left us forever I replanted the tree in my garden back in the mountains where it belongs. Quite an omen! That tree will forever remind us Dylan's true love of nature and force of friendship. I spare also a pious thought for his family and would like to share with them a couple of photos of happier days.

Rest in peace my dear friend!
