“ He was a college colleague of mine at Sierra College in Mechatronics. We worked really well together as lab partners in our classes. We had even taken our short cigarette breaks if needed and walked just outside of campus to vent our brains a bit. He was such an awesome guy, wish we had hung out more outside of class... he was starting to become more of the friend I was looking for during my college experience. He is the one person that left us all too soon! :(
